INSECTS AND APPLE TREES

There are 176 Different Varieties Capable of Making Them Entirely Fruitless.

It's almost a miracle that we have any apple trees at all, for there are 176 different varieties of insects which attack apple trees and are capable of making them fruitless. To fight this horde of pests the apple producing states spend as much as $3,000,000 a year for spraying trees, remarks Philadelphia Inquirer.

Scientists now say, however, that it would be much better if fruit growers spent less money in covering their trees with poison and did more to encourage birds to make their homes in the orchards. Birds devour almost every kind of insects which threaten fruit, and enough birds will accomplish wonders in freeing orchards from this danger.

Farmers often object to birds, because they eat so much fruit. There are, however, numerous ways in which the amount of fruit birds destroy can be made trivial compared with the number of insects they eat.

Robins, for instance, are extremely fond of cherries. But they will leave the cherry trees quite neglected if one or two trees of Russian mulberries, which ripen at the same time as cherries, are placed within reach.

Other things which will retain the robin's useful services as a forager without any serious loss of valuable fruit are chokeberries, holly, elder, sour gum, shadeberries, wild cherries, wild grapes, green-brier and smilax.

The planting of some such trees and shrubs in the vicinity of orchards serves a double purpose. It furnishes food for the birds and makes them more inclined to make their homes in the orchards. One reason why birds often avoid orchards is because the shrubbery has been cut away and they can find no suitable nesting places.

The modern wife placed two plates with knives, forks, spoons, and tumblers on the dining-room table, and took two paper napkins from a drawer, laying one beside each plate.

Then she lighted the gas stove, opened a can of soup and placed it in a skillet to heat. Next she opened two cans of vegetables and a can of salmon and heated these. She cut six slices of baker's bread and quartered a baker's pie, placing everything on the table together with butter, salt, pepper and a pitcher of cold water.

"John," she said briskly, "your dinner's ready."—Judge.

WOMAN GIVES HER TESTIMONY.

Mrs. Lewis Finds a Relish in Food Since Taking Tanlac.

Webb City, Mo., August 3.—Mrs. N. J. Lewis, who lives in the College building, this city, recently gave a remarkable statement for Tanlac, the new medicine.

"I was gradually growing weaker," Mrs. Lewis said. "For a year or more my condition has been very poor. Constipation and kidney and bladder trouble bothered me. My digestion was poor. Gas would form in my stomach after eating, resulting in a sickening sensation that would last for hours."

"I read about Tanlac and decided to try it. I began gaining strength immediately and now I am better generally. My digestion is improved. I relish food that formerly soured in my stomach. I'm gaining weight every day. I want to recommend Tanlac to other women."

Tanlac, the Master Medicine is especially beneficial for stomach, liver and kidney trouble, catarrhal complaints, rheumatism, nervousness, loss of appetite and the like. Tanlac is now being specially introduced and explained in Jasper at the H. F. Pitts drug store.

BLUE AND BETHEL.

MISS EDNA YATES.

An ice cream social at Blue Schoolhouse Saturday night, August 5, for the benefit of the Sunday School. Everybody invited.

Quite an exciting accident happened at Lesby Garrett's while Dave Lowe was threshing there Wednesday afternoon. A spark from the engine caught in the straw and burned what wheat was left in the stack yard together with Mr. Lowe's separator. The wheat was all covered by insurance but the separator was a total loss.

DIAMOND.

Mrs. CHARLES ELTING.

The continued hot weather makes all feel as cross as two sticks. Showers continue to go around. We may get one yet.

Several sick in the neighborhood. Our Sunday School was small Sunday. The day was too hot for folks to move around much.

A large number from our community attended the band concert in Jasper Saturday night.

Mrs. Thomas Edwards, who has been poorly the past week, is much better. We express our sympathy to Mr. Lowe in the loss of his separator by fire. Mr. Lowe has many friends in this community, having threshed in this neighborhood a number of times.

Chas. Nett and family called on Chas. Elting and wife Sunday.

Chas. Hane finished baling hay for Mr. Wardlaw Saturday.

Budd brothers entertained the threshers last week.

Mrs. Wm. Patterson spent Tuesday and Wednesday with Mrs. Edwards.

Link Milton and wife entertained company Sunday.

Mrs. Warren Pfander is visiting her aunt, Mrs. H. Rosebaugh. Ed Pfander took supper Friday evening with Chas. Elting and wife.

Miss Howard is staying a few days with Mrs. Edwards.

Buy fertilizer where your money goes the farther. What we mean is this—look at the analysis of your fertilizer and see how the State Bulletin figures your plant food value and see what your guarantee calls for. What would you think of a bank that guaranteed to give you back 50 per cent of the money you put in the bank—that is all some fertilizer people agree to do. Some farmers buy without looking at plant food value and feel like they owe their trade to someone who had favored them. We have sold fertilizer for over fifteen years and do not ask any favoritism. We believe the place to buy is where you get more plant food for your money than any other place. There were 22 companies doing business in Missouri last year and out of 462 samples tested, 82 were Swift's, and why so many Swift's? It is because wherever the value is considered Swift's goods are the kind they buy. We do not ask anyone to tip their hats to Swift's just yet, but will furnish a good

Some farmers buy without looking at plant food value and feel like they owe their trade to someone who had favored them. We have sold fertilizer for over fifteen years and do not ask any favoritism. We believe the place to buy is where you get more plant food for your money than any other place. There were 22 companies doing business in Missouri last year and out of 462 samples tested, 82 were Swift's, and why so many Swift's? It is because wherever the value is considered Swift's goods are the kind they buy. We do not ask anyone to tip their hats to Swift's just yet, but will furnish a good look at the analysis of your fertilizer and see how the State Bulletin figures your plant food value and see what your guarantee calls for. What would you think of a bank that guaranteed to give you back 50 per cent of the money you put in the bank—that is all some fertilizer people agree to do.
